Brief Report including above information	Key Highlights: The resource person emphasized the urgent need to reform the existing education system to align with the demands of the 21st century. The key takeaways from the session were: Outdated Methods: The present education system still follows outdated 19th-century teaching methodologies, which do not cater to the needs of modern learners. Technological Advancements: The fast-paced evolution of mobile phones and digital tools has significantly changed how students learn and interact with information. Challenges in Indian Education: Issues such as an obsolete curriculum, lack of infrastructure, and minimal focus on critical thinking continue to hinder educational progress. Innovation and Creativity: There is a growing need to cultivate innovative thinking and creativity among students to prepare them for entrepreneurial roles in the future. Suggested Strategies for Improvement: Ms. Pallavi Biradar proposed several practical strategies to bridge the gap between traditional education and contemporary needs: Curriculum Reform: Making the syllabus more dynamic, relevant, and student-centric. Teacher Training: Regular upskilling and professional development programs for educators. Technology Integration: Incorporating modern technology to enhance both teaching and learning experiences.
